PRESS RELEASE

To all workers from both private and public sectors,

On behalf of Rwandese Socialist Labour Party (PSR), its Executive Committee, first of all, we wish you a Happy International Labour Day.

Though, our country Rwanda and the whole world have been facing the COVID-19 pandemic throughout year 2021, we have achievements attained by all workers and the Government of Rwanda, especially public servants into health and security services.

It is in this context that National Executive Committee [NEC] of Rwandese Socialist Labour Party (PSR) intends to recommend the following to the government of National unity of Rwanda and economic operators of private sector:

- [i] It is worth to strengthen the assessment of provisions of the Law N° 66/2018 of 30/08/2018 Regulating Labour in Rwanda so that none of workers should be subjected to injustices;
- [ii] In accordance with professional categories and employment level, the minimum wage guaranty [SMIG] should be set as quick as possible that shall enable to proportionately determine the salaries and equitability;
- [iii] The facilitation of investment policy in Rwanda must comply with labour market development of work and to the fight against unemployment, to what the issuance of registration certificates by Rwanda Development Board should comply with.

[iv] It is common that some of mine-workers are crushed by landslides and construction workers by walls and fall from their scaffoldings. Rwandese Socialist Labour Party calls on private companies to comply with policies and regulations on registration of workers to RSSB;

[v] For retirees, Rwandese Socialist Labour Party is of the view that pension of retirees must be indexed on prices of articles according to the current consumption on markets; and establishment earning framework for workers to benefit the dividends from important enterprises where in Rwanda Social Security Board (RSSB) is investing their pension contributions.
